ILM Coaching & Mentoring Qualification Programme 2019

Coaching & Mentoring is now one of the most recognised methods of developing staff, managers, leaders and executives. Whether want you to step into coaching or you already work as a coach or mentor, you may consider obtaining a nationally (and internationally) recognised Qualification. It's commonplace now for coaches to be asked to show evidence of their professional competence, and qualifications are even specified in commercial tenders. A survey by the International Coaching Federation showed 84% of clients consider it important that their coach is qualified.

Our programme for coaching & mentoring provide a fast route to ILM qualifications at Level 5 and Level 7 and we are delighted to accept applications to join us in late 2019 to become qualified in 2020.
